

Abandoned at birth in The Outback Country of Australia, to be raised within an Aboriginal Tribe by the only Mother he ever knew. Cheyla Stone overcame all obstacles of his youth to become a well-known identity in The Outback.

A Wealthy Land Owner, and Cattle Man.

'Only the one thing he lacked was his true identity.'

Torn between the securities of an empire he had built, and a burning desire eating away at him inside, Cheyla contemplated an endless journey that would take him into the unknown, and across the vastness of Australia.

His only concern was if a few letters, and one only address, would suffice the search for his real Mother, and his roots.

Facing reality in The Outback he embarks on a Highway of Infinity!
'Will Cheyla prevail the harshness of his fate?'

'She stood silently, her head bowed to the graveside.

Her shoulders trembled as the tears streamed from her deep green eyes. She turned, quickly alerted as his boots rolled on the gravel in his approach behind her.

Their eyes met, and immediately he detected something in the depths of them... 'Recognition.'

Then she swayed, and fell towards him.
